iCreate campus to be operational by 2015

TIMES NEWS NETWORK

Ahmedabad: Gujarat's The International Centre for Technology and Entrepreneurship (iCreate) which is being led by Infosys cofounder Narayana Murthy, will move into its new campus by mid of 2015.

Construction at the 35-acre campus on the outskirts of Ahmedabad will begin in January, iCreate chief mentor Dr Madhukumar Mehta said. The world-class incubation centre of excellence is being developed on the road connecting Ahmedabad to Bavla.

iCreate will host its annual conference 'whatnext 2013' on emerging technologies and trends on Saturday, December 14. The conference will introduce to the delegates potentially transformative technologies on the horizon that will substantially impact the economy.

The sessions will be delivered by McKinsey director Jacques Bughin; Technion University's Harry Yuklea who is a member of the advisory board of icreate; and Sunil Parekh, founding curator at World Economic Forum.

iCreate is a not-for-profit institute set up in public-private partnership, to encourage and support next generation entrepreneurs leveraging innovation and technology.
